SECRETS OF ANGKOR – SMALL TOUR

The first stop of this so called small Tour is at a very photogenic South Gate of Angkor Thom City, where gods and demons line the road leading to the gate struggling in a cosmic tug of war.

We will then take you to the most iconic temples of the archeological site, to see the BAYON Temple, Captivating TA PROM Temple where roots are encrusting in the ancient stones, to finish by the magnificent ANGKOR WAT.

But in between we will take you to some hidden corners to admire carved faces.

Departure Time : 8AM
Arrival Time : 3PM
Duration : 4 - 6 Hours
Price : $ 24 | $ 35 | $ 45 ++

South Gate of Angkor Thom

Basement of the Terrace of the
Leper King

The first stop is at a very photogenic SOUTH GATE of ANGKOR THOM City, where gods and demons line the road leading to the gate struggling in a cosmic tug of war. The gate itself is crowned with four large faces facing in the cardinal directions.

Passing the gate, we will see the monumental BAYON, with its 54 towers decorated with more than 200 enigmatic smiling faces.

The temple stands at the centre of Jayavarman's capital, ANGKOR THOM. It's most distinctive feature is the multitude (4 on each tower pointing to the 4 sides) of serene and smiling stone faces of The Buddha, (probably modelled on the face of King Jayavarman VII), on the many towers which jut out from the upper terrace and cluster around its central peak.

Then we go to the TERRACE OF THE LEPER KING, to show you some hidden amazing carved faces.

Later we will continue to TA PROM TEMPLE, which was chosen to be left in its natural state as an example of how most of Angkor looked like, upon its rediscovery in the 18th century with gigantic roots and branches intimately intertwined with the stone probing walls to form a natural roof on its structures.

Angkor Wat

In the afternoon : ANGKOR WAT is one of the largest Hindu temples in the world and the most famous temple in the Angkor complex. The total area covers 81 hectares. Instructed by King Suryavarman II in the early 12th century.

Angkor Wat took an estimated 37 years to be built. The temple faces west because this temple was dedicated to Vishnu God.

All of the original religious motifs at Angkor Wat derived from Hinduism. Breaking from the Shaiva tradition of previous kings.

It was built as the king's state temple and capital city.

In 1177, approximately 27 years after the death of Suryavaman II, Angkor was sacked by the , Chamsthe traditional enemies of the Khmer.

Thereafter the empire was restored by a new king, Jayavaman VII, who established a new capital and state temple (Angkor Thom and the Bayon, respectively), a few kilometers north, dedicated to Buddhism, because the king's new wife, Indratevi, a devout Mahayana Buddhist, encouraged him to convert. Angkor Wat was therefore also gradually converted into a Buddhist site, and many Hindu sculptures were replaced by Buddhist art.

Preah Khan Temple

During the morning :

PREAH KHAN TEMPLE

King Jayavarman VII constructed Preah Khan temple in the year 1191. He dedicated this temple to his father mixing the concepts between Buddhism, Hindu, Animism, and personal cult under his reign. Preah Khan is one of the fewest temples in Angkor area, which still keeps its original name from Sanskrit word as “Nagara Jayagri”, which means “country which is protected by a sacred sword”. A stone stele found in 1939 describes something interesting about the king’s sword: it was made from 21 different metals.

NEAK PEAN TEMPLE

Neak Pean temple was built by king Javaraman VII, at the end of 12th century and dedicated to Bodhisattva Avalokesvara. The site served as a place where everyone in the kingdom came to heal their physical or mental sickness or cleansing sins and also for bringing the good luck of the astrological line. Neak Pean in Khmer means “Nagas Intertwining Tails”, due to two Nagas, one on the right is considered to be the male and another on the left is considered the female (Nagin).

TA SOM TEMPLE

Ta Som temple was constructed by king Jayavaraman VII (1181-1220). The king built Ta Som in order to honor his sister.. Ta Som is one of the three temples constructed by Jayavaraman VII, those three Temples include Presk (dedicated to his father) which is located to the western side of the lake; Neak Pean (baptism temple for all people) standing in middle of the lake, and Ta Som, itself located on the western side of Jayatataka.

Magical Preah Khan Temple

Pre Rup Temple

During the afternoon :

PRE RUP TEMPLE

The Pre Rup was built in 961 AD in the middle of the 10th century, by a Khmer King Rajendrevrman II. According to the local people they referred these structures served as crematorium, but French scholars believe it served as library. Due to similar buildings constructed on the both side of the causeway to the main temple they are referenced as library.

SRAS SRANG

Sras Srang was originally constructed by king Rajendravarman II at the 10th century. It has restored and enlarged by king Jayavarman VII at the end of 12th century. Sras Srang means the Royal Bath in Khmer.

BANTEY KDEI

Prasat Banteay Kdei, meaning "A Citadel of Chambers", also known as "Citadel of Monks' cells". Built in the mid-12th to early 13th centuries AD during the reign of Jayavarman VII.

This Buddhist monastic complex had been occupied by monks at various intervals over the centuries until the 1960s.

SECRETS OF THE CITADEL OF WOMEN

BANTEAY SREI is a 10th-century Hindu temple dedicated to God Shiva. It lies 25 km north-east of the main group of temples that once belonged to the medieval capitals of Angkor Thom. It is built largely of red sandstone. The temple is extremely popular with tourists, and have led to its being widely praised as a "precious gem", or the jewel of Khmer art.

It has been speculated that the temple's modern name, is due to the many devatas carved into the red sandstone walls.

The temple's modern name, means the citadel of the women, or citadel of beauty—is probably related to the intricacy of the bas reliefs carvings found on the walls and the tiny dimensions of the buildings themselves.

KBAL SPEAN – THE RIVER OF A THOUSAND LINGAS

Embark on an easy jungle trek (about 50 minutes) to the river of a Thousand Lingas. We will see Hindu sculptures which were carved into the river's granite banks and more than a thousand years ago. The path can be a little slippery in the wet, but the more difficult sections have bamboo hand rails and wooden steps. It is a 1.5 km uphill walk to the carvings, but well worth the climb for the view over the valley below. Bring suitable footwear and carry water if you intend to do the walk.

PHNOM KULEN

Phnom Kulen is 50km distance from Siem Reap town to the northeast. It is one of the most famous mountains, and also local people consider this mountain as the most spirited mountain in Cambodia. Phnom Kulen is also the source of the Siem Reap River. At the ancient time, especially under the reign of King Jayavarman II in the Angkor period, Phnom Kulen was served as the Capital city of the Khmer empire. On the top of this mountain there is a statue of Preah Ang Thom (Reclining Buddha). It's very popular for tourists to come to worship and enjoy the waterfall.

Upon returning, you might want to stop at BANTEAY SREI Temple, a small and charming pinkish sandstone Hindu temple dedicated to Shiva God. Considered by many to be the jewel in the Crown of Angkor, this temple boasts some of finest and best pressured stone carving you will ever see you might choose to have a sportive climb to the River of the Thousand Lingas or to Phnom Kulen.
